Signal

P&G; Canada is executing multiple high-profile brand activations and partnerships in 2026. In April 2026, the company signed a multi-year, multi-brand partnership with the NHL Canada covering Gillette, Old Spice, Tide, and Downy Rinse across digital dashboards, social content, retail programs and Stanley Cup Final sweepstakes. Additional 2026 activations include Tampax as Official Period Protection Partner of Toronto Tempo (May), Charmin's third season with Toronto Blue Jays (June), and Pampers partnership with Jean Coutu and Centraide. P&G; launched premium product lines in March 2026 including Pampers AMORE premium diapers, upgraded Swiffer PowerMop pads, and a redesigned Dawn Platinum refill system. The company faces a $400M tariff headwind in FY2026 but is maintaining advertising spend and focusing on premium innovation to drive organic growth. P&G; is leaning heavily into AI-enabled marketing and brand building, as noted at CAGNY 2026 in February.

Why now

P&G; is in active partnership execution mode with major Canadian sports properties (NHL, Blue Jays, Toronto Tempo) requiring coordinated media support across multiple brands. The company's strategic shift toward premium product innovation and maintained advertising spend despite cost pressures signals investment appetite. The multi-brand NHL platform launched in April represents a consolidated approach to media activation that creates opportunities for scaled partnerships. With tariff-driven pricing pressures and consumer price fatigue noted in Q1 FY2026 earnings, P&G; needs efficient, high-impact media strategies to drive volume growth while protecting margins.

Recommended action

Position a multi-brand campaign framework aligned to P&G;'s sports marketing momentum and premium product launches. Emphasize audience scale and precision targeting capabilities that support both brand building and performance outcomes across their portfolio. Lead with data-driven storytelling that demonstrates efficient reach against value-seeking consumers. Given the proposal already in market for a multi-brand campaign, reference the NHL multi-brand platform as validation of their consolidated activation strategy and propose complementary reach/frequency or content opportunities that extend their current sports partnerships into broader Canadian cultural moments.

Warm path

CRM: Previous campaign stakeholder moved into broader marketing role. Web: Jennifer Seiler is SVP Marketing Canada (appointed Oct 2022), responsible for brand operations and grooming portfolio, with 22+ years at P&G; leading Gillette, Venus, Crest, Downy. Noam Pik is President, P&G; Canada (quoted in NHL partnership announcement April 2026). Florence Cauchy is VP Sales, Loblaws Enterprise Team (promoted 2024). See sources for leadership verification.

2. Loblaw Companies Limited

Tier A · High urgency · Retail / CPG · confidence: High · mode: live

Signal

Loblaw is in aggressive expansion mode with $1.2B in remaining 2026 capex to open 75 stores (up from 70) and renovate 190 locations, focused heavily on discount banners No Frills and Maxi. The company is piloting multiple retail media innovations: 360-degree in-store advertising screens expanding across 700+ locations with partner Stratacache, a major retail media partnership with Criteo (August 2026) to expand advertiser access via Loblaw Advance™ backed by 18M+ PC Optimum loyalty members and 25M weekly emails, and AI-powered supply chain automation with EAIGLE (September 2026). Major brand campaigns include Mary MacIsaac's 'Possible Lives Here' PC platform driving 500,000+ new shoppers and the 'Loblaw Ignite' pilot spotlighting small Canadian brands (March 2026). Q2 2026 earnings showed strong performance with revenue up to $15.05B and growing e-commerce/drug retail segments. Upcoming Investor Day September 9, 2026 under theme 'Retail and Beyond' signals strategic positioning beyond traditional grocery.

Why now

Loblaw is actively expanding its retail media network with multiple partnerships in Q3 2026 (Criteo, Stratacache screens, EAIGLE AI) and scaling in-store advertising infrastructure to 2,000+ screens across locations. The aggressive store expansion (75 new stores in 2026, already opened 38 YTD) creates immediate inventory and partnership opportunities. The September 9 Investor Day presents a strategic inflection point where Loblaw will articulate its 'Retail and Beyond' vision - an ideal moment to align media/advertising proposals with their evolving retail media ambitions. Strong Q2 earnings and growing digital/loyalty engagement (18M+ PC Optimum members) demonstrate advertiser reach and budget availability.

Recommended action

Target outreach around the September 9 Investor Day timeframe, positioning media solutions that complement Loblaw Advance™ retail media expansion and support their massive store rollout (75 new locations + 190 renovations). Emphasize reach to value-conscious Canadian shoppers via discount banner expansion (No Frills/Maxi focus) and how your advertising inventory can amplify their brand campaigns (PC 'Possible Lives Here', Loblaw Ignite small brand spotlight). Consider co-marketing opportunities tied to their new store openings or retail media network scaling. Reference Criteo partnership as proof of their commitment to expanding advertising reach beyond owned channels.

Warm path

Web: Mary MacIsaac leads marketing as SVP and was named 2026 Marketer of the Year (Strategy, April 2026) for the PC 'Possible Lives Here' campaign. Lauren Steinberg is EVP & Chief Digital Officer overseeing retail media strategy including in-store advertising (see Strategy Dec 2025). Pratyush Kumar is GM of Loblaw Advance™ retail media network (see Strategy Dec 2025). CEO Per Bank regularly comments on expansion strategy in press releases. Consider reaching out via Loblaw Advance™ team given active retail media partnerships.
